Have a ball!

In 1994 two New Zealanders, Dwane van der Sluis and Andrew Akers, created a new adventure activity. They designed a big plastic ball and called it a zorb. That's when zorbing began! It's very easy. All you do is get inside the ball and then somebody rolls you along the ground or down a hill. Don't worry. It's not as dangerous as it seems because the zorb is made of soft plastic and is full of air.

From the very beginning, people enjoyed zorbing and soon it became a very popular free-time activity. Today, you can go zorbing in many countries around the world and there are different kinds of zorbing. You can get in a water ball and roll across a lake or the sea. Or you can even get in a zorb and let huge fans blow you into the air. Some zorbs are big and strong enough for up to three people, but you can also ride alone!

1. The people who designed the zorb were famous designers. (T)
2. A person who goes zorbing is called zorb. (F)
3. Zorbing is safer than it looks. (T)
4. It's easy to make a zorb. (F)
